Janne Malmros is showing work made during her year as the recipient of the Acme Adrian Carruthers Award and work specially made for the Acme Project Space.

Janne studied at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark and Central Saint Martins, London. She completed her MA in Sculpture at The Slade School of Fine Art in 2009.

During the year of her award Janne has shown work in London, Wales and South Korea and was the recipient of the Clifford Chance Prize for Print. She is currently artist in residence at University College London researching the Francis Galton Collection and Archive. Janne is working towards a solo show in Copenhagen in 2011.

Supported by Acme studios and individual donations the award was established in memory of artist and Slade graduate Adrian Carruthers who died in 2001 at the age of 40. Janne Malmros is the 8th recipient of the award.

'Janne Malmros has a keen natural sense of where to stand to get the best view. Whether working with the magnitude of an entire archive of prints and drawings, a floral dress or even a simple shape, Janne manages to find ways to pique her audience's curiosity and allow them both aesthetic and intellectual satisfaction. Somehow she succeeds in combining a non-prescriptive, process-led approach to her work with the consistent ability to produce beautifully intriguing objects. How she chooses her subjects is not always clear, jumping seamlessly from Lotus spare parts to ladybirds via playing cards and oak apples. But while a pattern to these subjects may remain elusive, what is clear is her overarching methodology of transformation, adaptation and repetition of objects and ideas in an attempt to draw out different possible meanings.'
