

OPPORTUNITY FOR ARTISTS – PUBLIC ART COMMISSION

MATCHMAKERS WHARF, LONDON E9

Block B, Matchmakers Wharf, Homerton, E9 which, including the glass trapezoid, will provide 49 purpose-built artists' studios.

SUMMARY

Telford Homes and Acme Studios are offering the opportunity for an artist (or more than one artist if working collaboratively) to undertake a permanent commission at Matchmakers Wharf, Telford's new mixed-use development due to open in June 2012.

Matchmakers Wharf, currently under construction on the site of the Lesney Matchbox Toys Factory, is situated on the River Lee Navigation close to the Olympic Park and will consist of over 200 homes, offices, shops, commercial space and 49 purpose-designed artists' studios to be owned and managed by Acme.

The commission is for an external 'public artwork' located at a busy pedestrian intersection at the entrance to the development. The area designated for the work is at ground level and approximately triangular in shape and close to the artists' studios.

The partners are seeking an imaginative response to the architectural context and the 'function' of the designated area as a meeting and focal point for residents and visitors. The work may also reflect the history of the site and the locality more generally. It is envisaged that the work may include seating and planting, and could be interactive and involve the use of lighting.

The work will be expected to embrace the use of sustainable materials and construction techniques, be durable, and future running and maintenance costs should be low.

The value of the commission is a maximum of £30,000 (to include fee, material, fabrication and installation costs). A separate budget will cover the costs of associated site preparation and the integration / landscaping of the commissioned work into the site.

Selection of the proposal will be via a two-stage process, with artists submitting indicative proposals by 27 May 2011 from which three proposals will be funded for further development. Artists selected for the second stage will receive a fee of £500 and be required to submit their detailed proposals by 5 August 2011.

BACKGROUND

Matchmakers Wharf is new landmark mixed-use development by Telford Homes currently being built on the site of the former Lesney Matchbox Toys Factory in Homerton, E9. The development, in partnership with Acme Studios, is located to the north of the London 2012 Olympic Park, less than 200 metres from the International Broadcast Centre which will become a focus for creative industries after the Games. The development comprises 209 residential units which will become available for sale or as social housing, 49 artists' studios and commercial space for community, office and retail use. There will also be improved access to the River Lee Navigation with moorings for residential and commercial boats.

The scheme will create a permanent and high-quality resource for artists, contributing to London Borough of Hackney's commitment to encouraging creative industries and, through public engagement, bring real benefits to new residents and existing communities. Telford's recognise that including artists' studios within a new development creates a natural conduit to local communities and that studios hold a natural attraction; by having them integrated into the heart of the development other creative and commercial businesses will be attracted to the area.

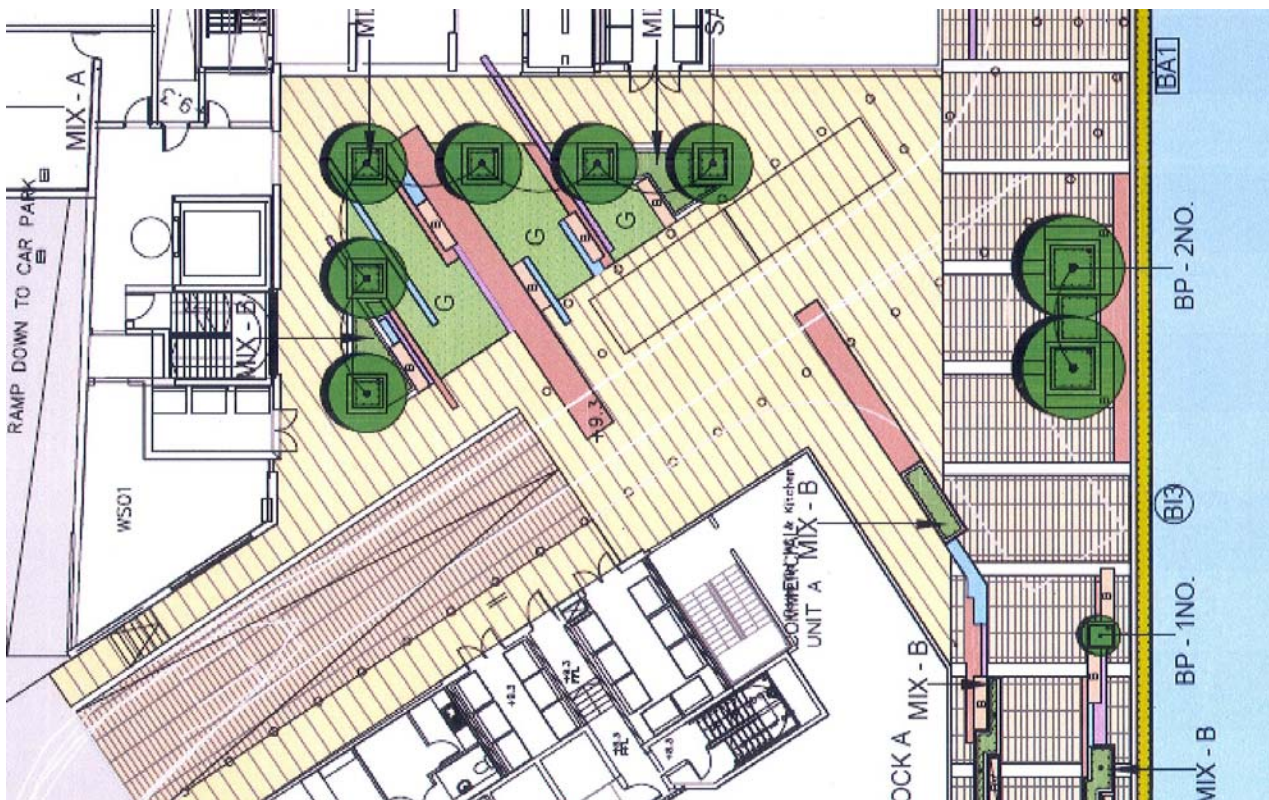

Acme worked closely with Telford Homes, and the architects Stock Woolstencroft, throughout the planning process, who quickly understood the needs of artists and the benefits they would bring to the project.

Acme has a long history of working in the borough, having supported several hundred artists with combined housing and studio space throughout the 70s and 80s and has a permanent studio building in Orsman Road, N1. The studios at Matchmakers Wharf will be the last project in the current phase of Acme's current capital development programme, part-funded by a major grant from Arts Council England.
